Learn from the Experts at the Chilliwack Fair

Chilliwack, BC: The Chilliwack and District Agricultural Society invites members of the public to visit the Chilliwack Fair and have their questions answered by experts. At the Fair, visitors will have the chance to view and interact with farm animals and learn about modern agricultural practices from current industry experts.

Hundreds of animals will be available for viewing in the barns, including cows, horses, sheep, goats, llamas, pigs, chickens and waterfowl. Multiple groups will be on site for the duration of the Fair and available to answer questions from the public, including BC Dairy Association, BC Chicken Growers Association, BC Rodeo Association and 4-H Clubs.

“We are pleased to facilitate this opportunity for groups to answer questions and share their knowledge with a broader section of our community,” said Cathy Oss, President of the Chilliwack and District Agricultural Society. “There is a growing disconnect between urban and rural, and it is our goal to have the Fair help bridge that gap.”

The Chilliwack Fair is proud to be the only fair in the Fraser Valley that continues to have open livestock classes in horse, sheep and poultry shows. Farmers from across BC show and compete with their animals and exhibitors are always pleased to have the opportunity to educate the public about their jobs, modern practices and animal welfare.

The Chilliwack Fair returns to Heritage Park for its 146th year from Friday, August 10 to Sunday, August 12. For event schedules and more information, visit www.chilliwackfair.com.
